UK and Australia Govts banning Apple Watch from Cabinet meetings: hacking fears

The Russians are being blamed for 'hacking everything,' which is why, in the UK at least, the Apple Watch is being banned from Gov't cabinet meetings.

Big Switch ? like name, like nature

SDN is a disruptor to traditional networking as it has 'abstracted' software (it decouples what the hardware has to do) from the hardware (switches, etc). Big Switch is a leader in SDN and we interview the boss about where the market is headed.

Samsung should cut its losses and take Note7 off the market

As more and more reports keep coming in of exploding Samsung Galaxy Note7s, it is clear that even the replacement phones have not fixed the issue which has dogged this so-called flagship device.

Most phones lack protection: survey

We're attached to our phones, but we don't take the best care of the data they contain according to a new report of mobile user attitudes.

Verizon bid to get Yahoo! price lowered: report

Verizon is trying to get the price it pays for Yahoo! lowered by US$1 billion following the string of bad news that the latter has been hit with in recent weeks.
